JAMES L. DOLAN

PRESIDENT AND
CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER
CABLEVISION SYSTEMS CORPORATION

As President and Chief Executive Officer of Cablevision Systems Corporation, James L. Dolan oversees the company's expanded telecommunications and entertainment and entertainment services, which include robust cable television packages, high-speed Internet access, national television program networks, championship professional sports teams, Radio City Music Hall, and Nobody Beats the Wiz stores. At the forefront of New York's entertainment industry, (together with Cablevision Vice Chairman Marc A. Lustgarten), Mr. Dolan also sits on Madison Square Garden's board of directors, overseeing the management of the Garden entities, of which Cablevision is the majority owner.

Prior to assuming his present post at one of the nation's leading telecommunications and entertainment companies, Mr. Dolan amassed more than two decades of experience in the management of cable systems, cable programming and advertising.

In the early 1990's, Mr. Dolan served for three years as Chief Executive Officer of Rainbow Programming Holdings, Inc. (now Rainbow Media Holdings, Inc.), a wholly owned subsidiary of Cablevision, and a leader in the development of niche programming. At Rainbow, Mr. Dolan oversaw all facets of the business, which today operates multiple entertainment, news and sports networks, reaching many millions of households in the United States and abroad.

Throughout the 1980's, Mr. Dolan was a major force in the creation and management of Rainbow Advertising Sales Corporation, a division of Rainbow and one of the first cable advertising sales companies in the country. The advertising division grew dramatically under his leadership, and today it is the nation's leading regional and national spot cable sales organization.

In the early 1980's, as a Cablevision Vice President, Mr. Dolan also created and managed WKNR-AM, Cleveland's first all-sports talk/radio station – and now one of the city's most popular stations. At the same time, he oversaw the launch of the weekly television magazine "Total."

Mr. Dolan began his career with Cablevision in the 1970's in the Plainview, NY cable system.

Mr. Dolan is a member of the board of directors of Cablevision Systems Corporation and serves on its executive committee. He also sits on the board and executive committee of the National Cable Television Association (NCTA) and chairs its Music Licensing Committee. Mr. Dolan is also a member of the board of directors of Hazelden New York, Cable Positive and CableLabs, and serves on the Capital Campaign Committee at Friends Academy.

The father of five, Mr. Dolan is a dedicated yachtsman and avid musician. He resides in Oyster Bay, NY.

MARC A. LUSTGARTEN

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS - MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

VICE CHAIRMAN & DIRECTOR - CABLEVISION SYSTEMS CORPORATION

Marc A. Lustgarten is Chairman of the Board of Directors of Madison Square Garden and Vice Chairman and a member of the Board of Directors of Cablevision Systems Corporation.

As Vice Chairman of Cablevision, Mr. Lustgarten is responsible for the company's new business development, its varied partnership arrangements and the company's general strategic direction.

Together with Cablevision Chief Executive Officer James L. Dolan, Mr. Lustgarten represents the telecommunications and entertainment company on the Garden's board, overseeing the management of the Madison Square Garden entities, of which Cablevision is the majority owner.

Mr. Lustgarten headed the acquisition team that guided Cablevision's purchase of the Madison Square Garden properties. Active in the world of professional sports, he is also an alternate governor of both the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey League.

Mr. Lustgarten joined Cablevision as general counsel in 1978, and was responsible for the legal operations of all company systems and their growing involvement in program syndication. From 1983 to 1984, he served as Vice President of Satellite and Sports Programming Operations, during which time he spearheaded the company's launches of American Movie Classics, Bravo, News 12 Long Island, and SportsChannel, – the nation's first regional sports network.

In 1984, Mr. Lustgarten was named President and Chief Executive Officer of Rainbow Programming Holdings, Inc. (now Rainbow Media Holdings, Inc.). In this capacity, he was responsible for the development and operation of all programming services for the company. Mr. Lustgarten became Vice Chairman of Cablevision in 1991.

Mr. Lustgarten is a graduate of Pace University and holds a doctor of laws degree from New York Law School and a master of laws degree from New York University Law School. He resides in New York City with his wife, Marcia. They have two children, Andrew and Jessica.

DAVID W. CHECKETTS

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

David W. Checketts was named President and Chief Executive Officer of Madison Square Garden on September 20, 1994. Since then, the company has made tremendous strides in providing a vast array of sports and entertainment excitement for millions of people.

The 42-year-old Checketts oversees all operations of one of the most powerful sports and entertainment companies globally, including the "World's Most Famous Arena" and its four sports franchises — the New York CityHawks of the Arena Football League, the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association, the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, and the New York Liberty of the Women's National Basketball Association — along with the award-winning MSG Network and FOX Sports New York. In keeping with the Garden's tradition as a sports and entertainment showplace, he has also fostered an expanded commitment to hosting live entertainment, family shows, and the renewal of the great legacy of Garden boxing. Now, with the addition of Radio City Entertainment to the Garden family, the synergies between MSG and Radio City Music Hall are boundless.

Last year proved to be an especially action-packed year for the Garden. Under Dave's leadership, two new professional franchises - the CityHawks and Liberty - debuted. MSG became the first arena to host the Grammy Awards. An inaugural extended run of "The Wizard of Oz," debuted in the spring. October saw the second annual Madison Scare Garden, the family-themed interactive Halloween attraction in the Expo Center, and the year concluded with a fourth successful year of "A Christmas Carol" (starring Hal Linden and Roddy McDowall), which is fast becoming a New York holiday tradition.

1998 has been equally as exciting. In February, the Garden hosted the 48th annual NBA All-Star Game, becoming the centerpiece for one of the largest annual sports extravaganzas. The Garden has also expanded north into Connecticut, becoming responsible for operating the Hartford Civic Center following the relocation of the Rangers' developmental club, the Hartford Wolf Pack (formerly the Binghamton Rangers).

Checketts brings to his present position the same clear picture of the New York community that marked his tenure as Knicks president. His dedicated efforts have been geared toward maintaining the Garden and its franchises as part of the very fabric of the city, while expanding the company's horizons with new and trailblazing ventures.

In four full seasons with the Knicks (he was appointed club President on March 1, 1991), Dave brought great leadership and boundless energy to the organization.

During the Checketts regime, the Knicks won two Atlantic Division Championships (1993 and 1994), made two trips to the Eastern Conference Finals, and emerged as Eastern Conference Champions in 1994. It was Dave's business acumen that helped bring the Knicks under the NBA salary cap for the first time ever in 1992, allowing for major personnel moves.

Checketts serves as a governor reporting for both the Knicks in the NBA and the Rangers in the NHL, and is on the planning committee for the future of the NBA. He came to the Knicks from the National Basketball Association headquarters, where he served as Vice President, Development since September 1990.

During a six-year tenure with the Utah Jazz, which began in 1983, Dave brought the team into prominence as one of the NBA's most efficient and successful organizations. He completed a meteoric rise to President of the Jazz in 1984, just one year following the launch of his professional sports career, and at age 28 he became the youngest chief executive in the NBA. During his tenure in Utah, the Jazz captured two Midwest Division titles and enjoyed a multi-million dollar economic turnaround. Dave joined the Jazz from the Boston-based management consulting firm, Bain and Company.

Checketts earned his undergraduate degree in communications and finance from the University of Utah after attending Brigham Young University. He later earned his MBA from BYU.

Committed to the community, Dave recently established the Madison Square Garden "Cheering for Children" Foundation, which was created to enrich the lives of children in the metropolitan area. The newly created Foundation uses the Garden's vast resources to help raise funds, create awareness and recruit volunteers for especially important causes that benefit needy children. Dave is also a board member of the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Children's Blood Foundation.

Dave and his wife Deb have six children — Spencer (20), Katie (18), Nathaniel (15), Andrew (13), Ben (11) and Elizabeth (5) — and live in Connecticut.

NEW YORK RANGERS

NEIL SMITH

PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER

As he enters his 10th year at the helm of the New York Rangers, Neil Smith's name is mentioned in the same breath as such legendary Rangers General Managers as Lester Patrick and Emile Francis, men whose success and legend Smith has strived to emulate. His first nine years running the club can be placed alongside Patrick's as one of the most successful and memorable periods in team history.

Since taking over the reigns as General Manager on July 17, 1989, the Rangers have compiled a record of 334-273-95, ranking among the elite NHL clubs of that period. New York has captured three division titles, two Presidents' Trophies and one Stanley Cup Championship.

The pinnacle of Smith's success came in 1993-94 when his diligence and persistence to build the Rangers into a Stanley Cup Champion came to fruition on June 14, 1994 when the team captured the fourth Stanley Cup in franchise history, defeating Vancouver four games to three. The championship was the culmination of a record setting season in which New York set a club record with 52 wins and 112 points. New York captured their second Presidents' Trophy in three seasons and became the first team since the Presidents' Trophy was established to win it, along with the Conference Championship and Stanley Cup in the same season.

Following the season, Neil was awarded with The Hockey News Executive of the Year Award. Neil was also honored by the New Jersey Sports Writer's Association as their Executive of the Year.

In his first three seasons as General Manager, New York finished in first place twice, including the 1991-92 Presidents' Trophy and second place once, marking the best three consecutive finishes in club history. Neil's outstanding accomplishments with the Rangers in 1991-92 were recognized following the season with two tremendous honors.

First, he was named the NHL Executive of the Year by The Sporting News, as voted by NHL general managers and governors, becoming the first Rangers executive to ever capture the award. Then, on June 19, 1992, he was promoted to the position of President and General Manager, becoming the ninth President in Rangers history and the first President to also hold the title of General Manager.

To ensure that the Rangers always have a successful and entertaining club on the ice as well as a developing group of young players who will enable the club to be successful in the future, Neil has used a combination of intelligent draft picks, shrewd trades and astute free agent signings.

During his tenure as General Manager, Smith has made trades for such all-star caliber players as Mike Gartner, Bernie Nicholls, Esa Tikkanen, Steve Larmer, Kevin Lowe, Pat Verbeek, Luc Robitaille, Kevin Stevens, Pat LaFontaine and Ulf Samuelsson. Smith's most successful trade and the top acquisition in franchise history came on October 4, 1991 when he acquired Mark Messier from Edmonton. Neil made perhaps the boldest trades of his career on March 21, 1994 when he acquired Glenn Anderson, Craig MacTavish, Brian Noonan and Stephane Matteau at the trade deadline to help lead the team to the Stanley Cup. One of his most successful coups on the free agent market came on September 3, 1991 when he tabbed Adam Graves.

Through the NHL Entry Draft, Neil has added players such as Alexei Kovalev, Niklas Sundstrom, Dan Cloutier, and Eric Cairns while also loading the organization's depth chart with top prospects at every position: goaltender Jason Labarbera; defensemen; Burke Henry, Jeff Brown, Maxim Galanov, Wes Jarvis, Tomi Kallarsson, Mike Mottau, Alexei Vasilijev and Jan Mertzig; and forwards; Manny Malhotra, Marc Savard, Stefan Cherneski, Daniel Goneau, Vladimir Vorobiev, Christian Dube, Randy Copley, Boyd Kane, Johan Witehall and Michael York.

Neil continued to improve the Rangers when he signed the greatest player in the history of the National Hockey League as a free agent, bringing Wayne Gretzky to the Rangers on July 21, 1996.

A native of Toronto, Ontario, Smith played junior hockey at Brockville, Ontario, before entering Western Michigan University, where he became an All-American defenseman as a freshman and team captain in his sophomore season. In September of 1991, Neil was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame, the first hockey player ever given the honor.

After being selected by the New York Islanders in the NHL Amateur draft and playing two seasons in the International Hockey League, Neil joined the Islanders scouting department during the '80-81 season. Following two seasons in that capacity, he joined the Detroit Red Wings as Director of Professional Scouting and soon after became Director of their entire farm system. Smith was then named Director of Scouting, and General Manager/Governor of the Adirondack Red Wings of the AHL, where he won two Calder Cup championships.

Neil is a board member of the National Child Abuse Prevention Center and with Ice Hockey in Harlem. He served as an Assistant General Manager for Team Canada in the 1996 World Cup. He lives with his wife, Katia and son, Viktor in New York City.

Muckler joined the Buffalo Sabres organization in 1991-92 as director of hockey operations until adding the head coaching duties in December of that season. He was named general manager in the summer of 1993 and spent two seasons holding both titles, before relinquishing his coaching duties in the summer of 1995. He posted a 125-109-34 coaching record with the Sabres and ranks second on their all-time list for games coached with 268. He was named Executive of the Year by "The Hockey News" for the 1996-97 season.

Prior to his six seasons with the Sabres, John spent 10 seasons with the Edmonton Oilers organization. He spent the 1981-82 season as head coach of their minor league affiliate in Wichita (CHL) before becoming Edmonton's assistant coach in 1982-83 and co-coach in 1985-86. He was named head coach of the club in 1989 and spent two seasons (1989-90, 1990-91), posting a 75-65-20 record.

Muckler began his coaching career in 1959-60 with the New York Rovers of the EHL. He spent seven seasons in the league, won the EHL Championship and was named Coach of the Year during the 1964-65 season.

He spent the 1966-67 season as director of player personnel for the Rangers before joining the Minnesota North Stars organization for the following six seasons. He served in various capacities, including general manager and head coach of their minor league affiliates in Memphis (CHL) and Cleveland (AHL). He registered a 58-83-20 mark as head coach over the span. He also made his NHL coaching debut in 1968-69 with Minnesota, serving as head coach for the final 35 games of the season.

He rejoined the Rangers organization in 1973 and spent four seasons as head coach of their minor league affiliate in Providence (AHL), registering a 136-111-34 mark over the span. He led the club to the Calder Cup Finals in 1973-74 and earned Coach of the Year honors in 1974-75 after leading the club to the regular season title with a 43-21-12 record.

Muckler joined the Vancouver Canucks organization in 1978 and served one season as general manager and head coach of their minor league affiliate in Dallas. He was voted Coach of the Year after winning the CHL Championship and was named Minor League Coach of the Year by The Hockey News. He spent the following two seasons as a professional scout for the Canucks before joining the Oilers organization.

Muckler has been elected to the Brantford Hall of Fame and the Paris, Ontario Hall of Fame. John and his wife Audrey have one son, John, and four daughters: Cindy, Karen, Tracy and Jenny.

DON MALONEY

ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

One of the Rangers most popular players during his tenure with the club, Don Maloney, returns to the Rangers, in his second season as Assistant General Manager after being named to the post on July 2, 1997.

Maloney, 38, will continue to work closely with Rangers President and General Manager Neil Smith, assisting on player contract negotiations and personnel decisions. In addition, Don begins his second season as General Manager of New York's American Hockey League affiliate, the Hartford Wolf Pack, and will also work in conjunction with Director of Scouting Martin Madden in running the club's amateur scouting operation.

Always known as a fierce competitor and an extremely hard worker during his playing career, Maloney, played 13 seasons in the National Hockey League. He spent 10 and a half years as a mainstay on left wing for the Rangers, from 1978-79 to 1988-89, before joining the Hartford Whalers and eventually the New York Islanders prior to his retirement on January 17, 1991. Maloney played in a total of 765 regular-season games, accumulating 214 goals and 350 assists for 564 points. In 94 playoff contests, he registered 22 goals and 35 assists for 57 points along with 101 penalty minutes.

Following his retirement, he joined the Islanders as Assistant General Manager under Bill Torrey. After two seasons, he was promoted to General Manager and Vice President of Hockey Operations. He served in that capacity from August 17, 1992 until December 2, 1995.

During his tenure, the Islanders drafted many top prospects and current NHL players; Todd Bertuzzi, Bryan McCabe, Tommy Salo, Darius Kasparaitus, Scott Lachance and Zigmund Palffy.

The native of Lindsay, Ontario was hired by the San Jose Sharks in June of 1996 as their Eastern Professional Scout and spent the '96-97 campaign evaluating talent at various professional levels in the eastern United States and Canada.

During his time with the Rangers, Maloney scored 20 goals or more in his first five full seasons with the Rangers, was selected to play in the NHL All-Star Game on two occasions (1983 and 1984) and was named Most Valuable Player of the 1984 NHL All-Star Game at New Jersey. Maloney helped lead the club to the Stanley Cup Finals in his rookie season, 1979, leading all post season scorers with 13 assists, while setting the record (since broken) for most points by a rookie in the playoffs with 20. Don shares several Rangers player records and holds many significant rankings on the club's all-time lists; placing 10th with 502 points, 12th with 653 games, ninth with 195 goals and 11th with 307 assists.

Maloney scored a goal on his first NHL shot against Boston on February 14, 1979 vs. Gilles Gilbert. One shift later he added his first NHL assist. He holds the record for the fastest three goals by one player in team history, notching the hat trick within a span of 2:30 on February 21, 1981 vs. Washington at Madison Square Garden. Maloney set the team record with nine game-winning goals in one season which was equalled in 1996-97. He is also tied with the most shorthanded goals (five) in one season in 1980-81, and with most assists in one game (five) on January 3, 1987 against Quebec. Maloney ranks second on the Rangers all-time playoff games played list, fourth on the Rangers all-time playoff scoring list with 57 points, is tied for seventh with 22 goals and places fourth with 35 assists.

Maloney was an active participant in the community and was named the Rangers 1984 Crumb Bum Award winner for service to New York youngsters. Don received the Rangers Players' Player Award as voted by his teammates on three occasions (1979-80, 1980-81 and 1986-87), including his first two with the club. THE LEGEND OF 99

Gretzky wanted to wear Howe's # 9 during his junior career with Sault Ste. Marie, but the number was held by Brian Gualatzie and Soo's general manager, Murray MacPherson, would not allow a player to take over a number someone already had ... Gretzky started the season wearing # 19 and later switched to #14 ... that season was the year Phil Esposito and Ken Hodge were traded to New York and began wearing numbers 77 and 88 ... MacPherson suggested switching to # 99, which Gretzky first rejected, then accepted.

HARTFORD WOLF PACK

The 1997-98 inaugural season of the Hartford Wolf Pack, the Rangers American Hockey League affiliate, was marked with inspiring play and a strong playoff run that promises a bright future for both fans and the organization.

The Wolf Pack officially welcomed hockey back to the Hartford Civic Center on October 4 with a 2-2 tie against the Portland Pirates, which was witnessed by 12,934 fans. A pre-game laser light show and a special banner-raising ceremony showed the city first-hand the dedication and commitment that the organization was giving to ensure the success of the franchise.

Hartford won just twice in its first eight outings, but then the team caught fire, going 14-3-3 over their next 20 games. A 6-3 win in Hershey, on November 22, gave the Pack a share of first place in the New England Division, a perch they rested on for all but five days the rest of the season.

Consistency became the Wolf Pack's trademark as the season progressed. A remarkable stretch of eight games in 10 nights, beginning the night after Christmas, could have knocked Hartford from atop the division, but after posting a respectable 2-3-3 mark in those contests, the Pack would go more than two months without losing consecutive games.

Another scheduling quirk would keep the Wolf Pack away from the Hartford Civic Center for more than a month. On January 24, playing their final home game for 32 days, Hartford battled Springfield in front of 14,115 fans, the team's largest crowd of the year. Hartford's next 10 games came on the road - another giant hurdle. But the Wolf Pack persevered and went 8-2-0, including three wins over Atlantic Division-leading Saint John.

Consecutive losses over the last weekend of the season dropped Hartford into a first-place tie with Springfield, whose 45 wins gave them the tiebreaker and the division title. The Wolf Pack would meet their in-state rival Beast of New Haven in the first round of the playoffs.

The city of Hartford was abuzz with playoff fever for the first time since 1992, and the Wolf Pack did not disappoint. After spotting New Haven a 3-0 lead in Game One, the Pack mounted a most improbable comeback, scoring seven times in the third period for a 7-4 win. Hartford carried that momentum to a 6-4 win the next night, and then looked for the sweep in Game Three. Hartford fell behind on the road 2-0 after one period, but finished off the Beast with two goals in the game's final six minutes. The Pack's killer instinct was back, as Hartford outshot New Haven 34-7 over the last two periods of their 3-2 win.

Hartford got out to a 2-0 series lead and a 3-1 cushion in the third period of Game Three of the conference semifinals vs. Worcester, but the Ice Cats still had some fight left. Worcester scored five times in that third period, and then captured Games Four and Five to push Hartford to the brink. But Dan Cloutier, who missed the three losses with a groin injury, returned with a flourish, making 52 saves in a 4-1 win in Game Six, and 39 more in an 8-2 rout in Game Seven to propel the Pack into the Eastern Conference Finals.

Facing a Saint John team that they had beaten five out of six times in the regular season, Hartford had reason to be optimistic. But after splitting the first two games in New Brunswick, the Wolf Pack lost three straight at home (for the first time all year), and on May 24, Hartford's inaugural season came to a close.

The 49 games at the Hartford Civic Center were attended by a total of 344,293 fans, the second-highest total in the AHL. Wolf Pack General Manager Don Maloney, along with head coach E.J. McGuire, helped to ensure the club's success by bringing back several key veterans to compliment the younger core group of players on the team. In all, 17 players suited up for both the Rangers and the Wolf Pack in 1997-98. This season promises to bring many great challenges and rewards as these enthusiastic youngsters prepare to once again display that Hartford is one of the premier teams in the AHL.

HARTFORD WOLF PACK COACHING STAFF

E.J. McGuire

HEAD COACH

E.J. McGuire enters his second season as head coach of the Hartford Wolf Pack, following a 43-25-12 mark during their inaugural 1997-98 season. The Wolf Pack's 99 points tied them for the best record in the Eastern Conference. McGuire was named head coach on July 31, 1997, after a two-year stint as head coach of the Guelph Storm of the Ontario Hockey League.

McGuire, 46, compiled an 80-41-11 record with the Storm, ranking second all-time with a .648 winning percentage. He guided Guelph to their first Memorial Cup appearance and their second division title in 1996, coaching such players as Rangers prospects Dan Cloutier and Ryan Risidore.

Hartford is McGuire's third coaching stint in the American Hockey League, and his second as a head coach. He led the Maine Mariners to a 23-47-10 mark in 1991-92. The Buffalo native began his coaching career in 1981 as an assistant coach with Rochester (AHL) and helped guide the club to the 1983 Calder Cup Championship. He was an assistant under Mike Keenan for Rochester, the Philadelphia Flyers from 1984-88, and for the Chicago Blackhawks from 1988-91, reaching the Stanley Cup Finals in 1985 and 1987. E.J. returned to the NHL from 1992-94 as the first assistant coach in Ottawa Senators history.

E.J. and his wife Terri reside in Bloomfield, Conn.

Mike Busniuk

ASSISTANT COACH

Mike Busniuk begins his sixth season with the Rangers organization, assisting in the development of the Rangers AHL prospects. Busniuk, 46, joined the Binghamton Rangers staff on September 2, 1993 under former teammate Al Hill, after having spent the previous two seasons as co-coach along with Bob McCammon of the Tri-City Americans of the Western Hockey League.

A native of Thunder Bay, Ontario, Busniuk was originally drafted by the Montreal Canadiens in 1971. He played in 143 NHL games with the Philadelphia Flyers from 1979-81, and appeared in the 1980 Stanley Cup Finals against the New York Islanders. Busniuk is one of two players in AHL history to win five Calder Cups, and he is the only one to capture four consecutive titles; he won rings with Nova Scotia in 1976 and 1977, and with Maine in 1978, 1979 and 1984. A graduate of the University of Denver, Busniuk finished his playing career by spending three seasons in Italy.

"Buzzy" and his wife Jan spend the off-season in Thunder Bay with their three children: Jake, Katie, and Molly.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE NEW YORK RANGERS

The Rangers' Official Emblem

Now entering their 73rd season in the National Hockey League, the New York Rangers have thrilled fans with exciting hockey and notable achievements, most recently the club's proudest moment, the dramatic 1993-94 Stanley Cup championship.

Rangers fans have been enjoying another tremendous thrill, watching the NHL's all-time leading scorer and arguably it's best player ever, Wayne Gretzky, wearing number 99 on Broadway, the biggest stage in the world. But success is not new for the Rangers. From the outset, the club was among the best in the NHL.

The National Hockey League granted Madison Square Garden a franchise to operate its own team for the 1926-27 season, following the initial success of the New York Americans, who began play in the Garden for the 1925-26 season and would become the Rangers first arch-rivals. Garden president G.L. "Tex" Rickard chose University of Toronto's Conn Smythe to build his team and Smythe assembled a talented roster, including future Hall of Famers Frank Boucher and Bill Cook, who with Cook's brother Bun formed hockey's top line; Hall of Fame defenseman Ivan "Ching" Johnson, who effectively teamed with Taffy Abel; and second line winger Murray Murdoch, who would become hockey's first "iron man," playing 508 consecutive games. Sportswriters dubbed the team "Tex's Rangers" and that was the origin of the club's name.

Prior to the start of their first season, however, disagreements with the Garden management caused Smythe's exit. On the eve of the club's first season, the task of guiding the Rangers was handed to one of professional hockey's pioneers, Lester Patrick, who grew to be the Big Apple's most visible and quotable hockey man. Patrick directed the Rangers to a first place finish in their opening season (with Bill Cook winning the league scoring title) and, led by Boucher's scoring heroics, their first Stanley Cup in 1927-28. It was the last time an NHL team has won the Cup as quickly as its sophomore campaign. During Game Two of the 1928 Finals against the Montreal Maroons, the 44-year old Patrick substituted for injured goaltender Lorne Chabot in one of hockey's legendary moments.

With hard, clean play and innovative tactics, the Rangers became known as "the classiest team in hockey," going to the Finals four times in six years. Regularly among the leaders in assists, Boucher epitomized the club's style, winning the Lady Byng Trophy so frequently, the league allowed him to keep the original silverware and struck a new award. Bill Cook won a second scoring title in 1932-33 and in April, his overtime goal in Game Four of the Finals gave the Rangers a 1-0 win over Toronto and their second Stanley Cup title. Cecil Dillon's scoring and Andy Aitkenhead's goaltending led the way for Patrick's club.

In their first 16 seasons, the Rangers missed the playoffs only once, and only twice did they fall lower than third place. New York won three regular-season championships in that span, finished second five times and third on six other occasions. The Garden became the place to be on nights the Rangers played, attracting a "dinner-jacket" crowd which often included other sports figures, Broadway entertainers, New York's society elite and City Hall politicians. The Rangers built an empire and New Yorkers loved it.

The Original Rangers gave way to a new group of stars in the late 1930s. Patrick acquired goalie Davey Kerr from the Maroons in 1934 and defenseman Art Coulter from Chicago in 1936 and they became the backbone of the next great Rangers team, which lost a five game Final to Detroit in 1937. Three seasons later, Boucher succeeded Patrick as coach and the Rangers won the Cup again. The 1940 Rangers were led by the dangerous line of Hall of Famer Neil Colville, his brother Mac and Alex Shibicky. Hall of Famer Bryan Hextall, Phil Watson, Dutch Hiller, Alf Pike, Clint Smith, Kilby MacDonald and Lester's son Lynn gave Boucher great depth up front. Lester's other son Muzz helped form a solid defense corps with captain Coulter, Babe Pratt and Ott Heller. Hextall's overtime goal against Toronto in Game Six of the 1940 Finals was the decisive tally in the Rangers third Cup championship.

Two years later, the Rangers finished atop the league with the Watson-Patrick-Hextall line dominating league scoring. But World War II had already begun breaking up this collection of Ranger All-Stars. In the years that followed, the club struggled. In the next 13 seasons, the club only made the playoffs twice. Still the Rangers featured outstanding individual talents. Buddy O'Connor became the first Ranger to win the Hart Trophy as NHL MVP in 1947-48 and goalie Chuck Rayner won the Hart in 1949-50, the year the Rangers lost a seven game overtime Stanley Cup Final to the Red Wings. Edgar Laprade, Hy Buller and Bones Raleigh were standouts in the late Forties and early Fifties.

In the 1950s, a fertile farm system and some deft trades improved the team's fortunes. Hall of Famers Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice, Harry Howell, Bill Gadsby and Gump Worsley, along with Camille Henry, Andy Hebenton and "Leapin' Louie" Fontinato helped the team back into the playoffs in mid-decade. Bathgate, who became the club's captain and all-time leading scorer, won the Hart Trophy for the 1958-59 season. Hebenton played 560 consecutive games as a Ranger and Howell became recognized as one of hockey's best defensemen and was awarded the Norris Trophy in 1966-67.

A Rangers Renaissance began in 1960s, directed by coach and general manager Emile Francis. Beginning in 1966-67, the club made the playoffs nine consecutive seasons, the only NHL team of the period to accomplish that feat. Led by Rod Gilbert, who eclipsed Bathgate's club scoring records, and his linemates Jean Ratelle and Vic Hadfield, the Rangers were again an NHL powerhouse. All three became All-Stars during the period as did defenseman Brad Park and goalie Ed Giacomin. Reliable two-way players like Pete Stemkowski, Steve Vickers and Walt Tkaczuk helped round out the team. In 1971-72, Hadfield became the first Ranger to score 50 goals in a season and that year the Rangers faced Boston in the Stanley Cup Finals, losing a tough six-game series.

Following a two-year absence from post-season play in the mid-1970s, a new group of Rangers emerged led by stars Anders Hedberg, Ulf Nilsson, Barry Beck, Ron Greschner, Phil Esposito, John Davidson, and the Maloney brothers, Dave and Don. The Rangers dramatically marched to the Stanley Cup Finals in 1979, defeating their new arch-rivals, New York Islanders in the semi-finals before bowing to the Montreal Canadiens in a five game Final. While the Rangers would not reach the Finals again until 1994, they built a good team and it took the best teams to defeat them. Beginning in 1979, the clubs that eliminated the Rangers in the playoffs over each of the next nine seasons all went to the Finals or won the Stanley Cup.

The hiring of Neil Smith as general manager of the Rangers in 1989 began the process which led to the 1994 Stanley Cup championship. Smith acquired center Mark Messier from Edmonton for the 1991-92 season and Messier led the club to the top of the league and was recognized for his efforts by winning the Hart Trophy that season. Through timely trades, keen drafting and opportunistic free agent signings, Smith pieced together as talented a club the Rangers ever had.

After finishing atop the NHL during the 1993-94 regular season, the Rangers defeated the New York Islanders and Washington Capitals in the first two playoff rounds, then came from behind to win the Eastern Conference championship on Mark Messier's third period hat trick in Game Six and Stephane Matteau's double overtime goal in Game Seven against the New Jersey Devils. They defeated the Vancouver Canucks in another seven game thriller, with captain Mark Messier scoring the Stanley Cup-winning goal.

The Rangers' fourth Cup and the numerous franchise records set that season continued a long, distinguished history marked by outstanding team and individual performances. In the past seven years, those performances have included three division titles and two Presidents' Trophy seasons for the NHL's best regular season record. The emergence of new superstars like Brian Leetch, Mike Richter and Adam Graves, who broke Hadfield's 50 goal mark in 1993-94, as well as a wealth of potential star players make the future of the New York Rangers brighter than ever.

NYR SKATE FOUNDATION

On and off the ice, the New York Rangers dedicate their energy and resources to SEEING KIDS ACHIEVE, TRIUMPH AND EXCEL.

In January of 1998, the New York Rangers established the NYR SKATE Program, a division of the Madison Square Garden Cheering for Children Foundation, designed to enrich the lives of children in the New York metropolitan area.

During the 1997-98 season, the Rangers teamed up with CIBC World Markets to create the CIBC World Markets/Rangers Children's Charities Program. Through CIBC Oppenheimer's contribution, $150,000 was distributed to New York based charities including: Ronald McDonald House, Exchange Club Child Abuse Prevention Center, Ice Hockey in Harlem, Family Dynamics, Starlight Foundation, PBA Widow's & Orphans Fund, Xeroderma Pigmentosa, Crohn's & Colitis Foundation, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Outward Bound and A Wish & A Smile.

This season NYR SKATE will continue to assist children in the tri-state area through the continuation of the CIBC World Markets/Children's Charities Program, increased team fundraising efforts and charitable contributions. NYR SKATE fundraising events range from in-arena raffles and silent auctions to a SuperSkills/Celebrity Hockey Game. In addition, the program will oversee the donation of Rangers tickets and items to area children's charities.

CHASE

For growing companies like Gourmet Garage, Chase brings more to the table.

Fine food for everybody is the philosophy of Gourmet Garage – the pioneering specialty food supermarket chain based in Manhattan. "We give our customers the best food in the world at a fair price," says co-founder and CEO Andrew Arons. "It's a lot like Chase's attitude to our business."

Gourmet Garage

Chase has been the company's bank since its earliest days. At first Gourmet Garage sold only to fine restaurants, but in 1992 Arons and partners John Gottfried and Ned Visser opened their warehouse to the public. Despite a driving rainstorm and an off-beat Soho location, more than 1,200 customers showed up on the first day. They've been deluged with success ever since.

Chase services helped expand the Soho store and open two new stores in 1997. "Our success could not have happened without Chase," says John Gottfried. "Chase has been our partner, and their approach is 'what can we do that will help Gourmet Garage grow?' Our trade sources all over the world can call our Relationship Manager directly for credit references. That's service."

What does your bank bring to the table? From loans and investments to 401(k)s and international trade, Chase satisfies your appetite for growth.

CHASE. The right relationship is everything.℠
